

2015 Oregon Listing Results: Summary

Thank you to the 116 birders who submitted numbers this year, including 15 new participants. I carried forward records from 183 other participants, including 19 deceased birding friends. These Listing Results include the efforts of 299 birders over the years.

Looking at these records, we remember departed friends with whom we shared time afield. Sometimes their records are lost and their final numbers never recorded. We can thank Judy Meredith, Knute Andersson, and Paul Sullivan for gathering the records of departed friends Dean Hale, Lois Miller, and Carol Karlen, respectively.

Notable Statewide Achievements:

Seven more birders have reached the 400 species mark on their Oregon Life List. In alphabetical order they are: Dean Hale, Adrian Hinkle, Christopher Hinkle, John Fitchen, Marilyn Miller, Jamie Simmons, and Noah Strycker. (We also note that Noah set another record this year.)

Three birders set about doing a big year in Oregon in 2015 and reached the ranks of the top ten year lists of all time:

Trent Bray at 363 species. Christopher Hinkle at 353 species, and Adrian Hinkle at 347 species.

In the Birds Photographed in Oregon category Tom Crabtree tallied 433 species. Participants reporting in this category: 39.

This year we have added two new categories to showcase life lists in Eastern Oregon and Western Oregon, each category representing 18 counties on either side of the Cascade Crest.

Notable County Listing Achievements:

Jeff Harding became the 18th birder to see 100 species in all 36 Oregon counties. Two birders reached the goal of seeing 125 species in all 36 Oregon counties: Tim Shelmerdine and Russ Namitz. Carol Karlen came close to this goal, falling only 2 species short in Douglas County.

This year each county in Oregon was represented by at least one birder submitting a year list for that county. This indicates the level of interest by birders who are working toward county listing goals.

Five birders set out to establish new county year list records. In Harney County Tim Blount at 261 species and Rick Vetter at 256 species beat the previous county year list record set in 2014 by Duncan Evered. In Klamath County Dave Hewitt at 259 species, Dave Haupt at 258 species, and Julie van Moorhem at 251 species beat the previous county year list set in 2014 by Kevin Spencer.

In the County Life List category it regularly happens that birders with the leading life list in their home county add a species or two and increase their total. This year special mention goes to Tim Rodenkirk and Ron Maertz in who added five species in Coos and Douglas Counties, respectively.
